PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

BEYOND INFORMATION: FORMING MINDS, SHAPING LIVES

Dear Parents and Students,

The reopening of school on 1st June was far more than the beginning of another academic year. After two months of summer vacation, our campus once again came alive with laughter, friendship, and the joyful energy of young minds. It was a privilege for our teachers and staff to welcome every child back to what we fondly call their second home.

A school is much more than a place where lessons are taught. It is a community where values are nurtured, character is shaped, friendships are forged, and dreams begin to take flight. It is here that children learn not only to read and write but also to think critically, work collaboratively, respect diversity, and grow into compassionate and responsible citizens.

As we begin this academic year, we also find ourselves living in the remarkable age of Artificial Intelligence. Information has never been more accessible. Within seconds, AI can answer questions, summarise content, and generate impressive responses. Yet, amidst this technological revolution, we must remember an important truth: AI can process information, but it cannot create wisdom.

Knowledge is far greater than information. Information tells us what something is; knowledge enables us to understand why it matters, how it should be applied, and what consequences it may bring. True knowledge grows through experience, reflection, meaningful relationships, sound judgement, and moral responsibility. These are uniquely human qualities that no technology can replace.

This is why schools remain indispensable. Education is not merely about acquiring facts; it is about forming the whole person. A school offers children a miniature society where they learn empathy, integrity, leadership, resilience, teamwork, and respect for others. Our responsibility is not only to prepare students for examinations but also to prepare them for life. We want them to use technology intelligently without allowing technology to replace their curiosity, creativity, critical thinking, or humanity.

Equally important is the partnership between home and school. In a world shaped by digital distractions, social media, mental health concerns, and the growing threat of substance abuse, our children need more than supervision—they need understanding, encouragement, and companionship. Initiatives such as Operation D-Hunt remind us that safeguarding our children is a shared responsibility. Parents who listen with empathy and teachers who guide with wisdom together create the secure environment every child needs to flourish.

As we journey through this new academic year, let us work hand in hand to raise young people who are academically competent, emotionally resilient, morally upright, and socially responsible. Let us teach them that while artificial intelligence may transform the world, it is human intelligence, values, compassion, and integrity that will shape its future.

May this year be one of joyful learning, meaningful relationships, and personal growth. Together, let us help every child discover not only the joy of achievement but also the deeper purpose of becoming thoughtful, responsible, and compassionate human beings.

A JOYOUS BEGINNING: WELCOMING A NEW ACADEMIC YEAR

The new academic year commenced on 1st June with a vibrant and heartwarming reopening celebration. The school campus came alive with excitement as teachers gathered at the entrance to warmly welcome the students. The rhythmic beats of the Chenda Melam and the lively presence of colourful cartoon characters created a festive atmosphere, bringing smiles to every child's face.

To ensure the smooth conduct of the programme, separate assemblies were held for the Junior and Senior Sections. The assemblies featured melodious songs, graceful dance performances and students sharing their memorable summer vacation experiences, adding warmth and enthusiasm to the occasion. Addressing the students, Principal extended a warm welcome and encouraged them to embrace the new academic year with confidence, discipline and a love for learning. Emphasising the Jesuit value of Magis, he inspired the students to strive for excellence, pursue continuous growth and always give their very best in every endeavour.

The reopening day marked the beginning of another promising academic journey, filling the school with hope, happiness and renewed determination. It was truly a memorable start to a year of learning, growth and success.

KINDERGARTEN PRAVESHANOLSAVAM 2026-27

Seena Thomas

The Loyola family happily welcomed its newest little stars on 3rd June 2026 with the celebration of Kindergarten Praveshanolsavam 2026-27. It was the beginning of a beautiful learning journey for our young learners.

The children, along with their parents, were warmly welcomed by our Principal, Fr. Roy Alex, SJ, our Manager, Fr. Pious Vachaparambil, SJ, the Vice Principals, Academic Coordinators, teachers, and aunts. Each child received a handmade popsicle memento and a colourful cap as a welcome gift.

The celebration began with the lively beats of the Chenda Melam. The children walked in a joyful procession from the basketball ground to the school quadrangle, led by the school band. Our Grade 2 students welcomed them with colourful balloons, making the moment even more special. As the balloons floated into the sky, everyone watched with joy. Although a few children were emotional on their first day, they were soon comforted with love and care.

The programme continued with the lighting of the ceremonial lamp in the presence of our chief guest, Dr. Abdunnasar U K, an eminent educationist and researcher, along with the school management. A beautiful welcome dance by the Grade 1 students added joy to the celebration.

The children then went to their classrooms, where they were welcomed with warm applause from students across the school. At the same time, parents attended an orientation session by Dr. Abdunnasar U K, followed by the PTA Executive Committee selection meeting.

The day ended with smiling faces, return gifts, and happy memories. We wish all our little stars a joyful and successful journey at Loyola.

A GRAND CELEBRATION OF ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AND SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Loyola Laurels and District Level Inauguration of Operation Thoofan

June 5: Despite persistent heavy rain and sudden changes in weather, Loyola School, Kozhikode, successfully conducted Loyola Laurels–26, its Annual Awards Day, at 10.00 a.m. on World Environment Day, making it a memorable occasion that celebrated academic excellence while reinforcing the school's commitment to social responsibility.

The event assumed greater significance as Loyola School was chosen as the venue for the district-level inauguration of "Operation Toofan," the Kerala Police's statewide anti-narcotics campaign. The prestigious launch brought immense recognition to the institution, making it a proud milestone in the school's history.

The programme was inaugurated by the Chief Guest, Ms. Merin Joseph IPS, District Police Chief and Commissioner of Police, Kozhikode City, who launched Operation Toofan by planting a sapling under the School Plant Against Drug Abuse (SPAD) project. The symbolic tree planting, conducted on World Environment Day, reflected the dual message of protecting nature and nurturing a drug-free future for society.

Ms. Merin Joseph was accompanied by several senior officers of the Kozhikode City Police. The event witnessed the presence of police officials, school authorities, teachers, students, parents, PTA members and distinguished guests. The programme attracted extensive media attention, receiving wide coverage in leading newspapers, television channels and social media platforms, bringing considerable recognition to Loyola School.

Addressing the gathering, Ms. Merin Joseph IPS explained that Operation Toofan is aimed at dismantling drug trafficking networks while creating widespread awareness about substance abuse among young people. She emphasised that the initiative focuses not merely on increasing arrests but on preventing substance abuse, identifying the root sources of drug supply, encouraging early intervention, and providing medical care and counselling for individuals at the initial stages of addiction.

She further stated that schools were chosen as the centres for launching the campaign because children and youth are among the most vulnerable groups targeted by drug traffickers. She cautioned students that even a single involvement in a drug-related offence could have lifelong consequences, as police records may adversely affect higher education and future employment opportunities. She urged students to remain vigilant and immediately report any instances of drug abuse or trafficking to their parents, teachers or the authorities.

As part of the district-wide campaign, awareness programmes would be conducted in 175 schools across Kozhikode, involving police officers, excise officials, teachers and social organisations to educate students about the dangers of narcotic drugs and the importance of making healthy life choices.

The programme was presided over by Rev. Fr. Roy Alex SJ, Principal of Loyola School, while Rev. Fr. Pious Vachaparambil SJ, Manager, addressed the gathering. Vice Principals Ms. Jisha Sukumaran and Ms. Nisha Sujesh, along with PTA President Mr. Ashik Krishnan, faculty members, parents and invited guests, were also present.

One of the highlights of Loyola Laurels–26 was the recognition of outstanding academic performance during the 2025–26 academic year. Nearly 140 students were honoured for their exceptional achievements. Gold medals were presented to the toppers of every class along with certificates, while students who secured the highest marks in each class with 95% and above were also awarded certificates in recognition of their academic excellence.

A special moment of pride was the felicitation of the 13 students who secured 90% and above in the ICSE Class X Board Examination 2025–26. Each student received a memento and certificate from the Chief Guest in recognition of their remarkable achievement.

Kumari Dharmee Viradiya (School Topper), delivered an inspiring speech, encouraging fellow students to pursue excellence through dedication, perseverance and disciplined effort.

The cultural segment of the programme added colour to the celebration with a melodious prayer song by the School Choir, a welcome speech by Kumari Jeevitha P. (Class VIII), a group song by the School Choir, an energetic group dance by the Loyolites, and a solo performance by Master Aadinandan (Std IX). Awards for different sections were presented by the Manager, Principal and PTA President, while Ishani K. V. (Class VIII) proposed the vote of thanks.

The remarkable success of Loyola Laurels–26 was made possible through the dedicated efforts of the Awards Day Committee, comprising:

Ms. Shiji Kurup, Ms. Prabitha Babith, Ms. Gayathri V., Ms. Binitha P. M., Ms. Sheeja Praveen, Ms. Bini Sudheer, Ms. Sheeba Vikash. The committee worked tirelessly under the guidance and support of Vice Principals Ms. Jisha Sukumaran and Ms. Nisha Sujesh, ensuring the smooth execution of every aspect of the programme.

The school also expresses its sincere gratitude to the Parent-Teacher Association, whose wholehearted support and active participation greatly contributed to the success of the event.

A special note of appreciation goes to Rev. Fr. Roy Alex SJ, Principal, whose calm leadership, quick thinking and wise decisions enabled the programme to proceed seamlessly despite the heavy rain and last-minute changes to the schedule. His guidance ensured that every event—from the district-level launch of Operation Toofan to the Awards Day celebrations—was conducted with dignity and excellence.

The successful organisation of Loyola Laurels–26 demonstrated Loyola School's unwavering commitment to recognising academic excellence while nurturing socially responsible citizens. The unique combination of honouring student achievement and hosting the district-level inauguration of Operation Toofan made the day a landmark occasion in the history of Loyola School, Kozhikode, reflecting its vision of educating young minds with excellence, values and responsibility.

PROTECT NATURE TODAY, PRESERVE LIFE FOR TOMORROW

Our school celebrated World Environment Day on 5th June with great enthusiasm. The theme for World Environment Day 2026, "Inspired by Nature. For Climate. For Our Future." inspired students to understand the importance of protecting nature and adopting sustainable practices.

Students from UKG to Class X actively participated in various competitions and awareness programmes. The activities included a Colouring Competition (UKG–Class II), Poster Making (Classes III–V), Notice Board Decoration (Classes VI–VII), and Collage Making (Classes VIII–X), encouraging students to express their creativity while spreading environmental awareness.

A special "Plant a Sapling" Video Contest motivated students to plant trees at home and promote a greener future. An energetic Flash Mob carrying the message of environmental conservation added colour and enthusiasm to the celebration.

A special Loyola Radio programme was also conducted, featuring inspiring speeches, poem presentations, and messages on environmental protection. Students took an Environment Protection Pledge, reaffirming their commitment to conserve nature and reducing plastic pollution.

The celebration was a grand success, inspiring students to become responsible citizens and reminding everyone that every small step towards protecting nature makes a big difference.

ONE SMALL SAPLING, ONE BIG SMILE

On June 5, our school celebrated World Environment Day. My teacher told us that plants give us oxygen, keep the air fresh, and make our Earth cool and beautiful. Inspired by this, I decided to plant a sapling in my little backyard garden.

My mother helped me choose a medicinal plant called Mexican Mint. It has soft, thick green leaves that feel like velvet. The leaves give off a fresh and soothing fragrance that fills the air. We gently placed the tiny sapling into the soft, loose soil, and I carefully covered its roots with earth. Then I gave it a little water so it would never feel thirsty.

My grandmother told me that Mexican Mint is a wonderful medicinal plant that helps cure coughs and colds. Every day after school, I happily water my little plant and watch it grow. Seeing new leaves appear fills my heart with joy.

This small plant has taught me a big lesson—that even a tiny act of caring can make a big difference. I believe that if every person plants just one sapling and takes care of it, our Earth will become greener, healthier, and more beautiful for everyone.

WHEN MUSIC SPEAKS TO THE HEART

Aadinandan T.M

Music is one of life's greatest gifts. It has the extraordinary power to make us smile, bring tears to our eyes, awaken cherished memories, and fill our hearts with hope—all at the same time. It speaks a language that knows no boundaries. Regardless of our culture, age, or nationality, music has the unique ability to unite people and touch every soul.

For me, music is much more than a hobby—it is a part of my identity. As a singer, I have discovered that music allows me to express emotions that words alone often cannot capture. Every song carries a story, every melody conveys a feeling, and every performance becomes an opportunity to connect with others. Singing has taught me confidence, patience, discipline, and the joy of sharing a piece of my heart with the world.

In the rhythm of our everyday lives, music is always present. It fills our celebrations with happiness, comforts us in moments of sorrow, and gives us strength when life becomes challenging. Whether it is a timeless classical composition, a soulful folk melody, a devotional hymn, or a contemporary song, music possesses the remarkable ability to inspire, heal, and uplift the human spirit.

World Music Day reminds us to celebrate this priceless gift. It is a day to honour musicians, singers, composers, and every individual who keeps the spirit of music alive. More importantly, it encourages us to recognize the countless ways in which music enriches our lives—often without us even noticing.

To me, music is not something I merely listen to; it is something I experience with my whole heart. It is the voice of emotions, the bridge that connects hearts, and a faithful companion that walks with us through every season of life. It teaches us to celebrate joy with gratitude, face challenges with courage, and embrace life with hope.

As we celebrate World Music Day, let us cherish the melodies that bring people together and remind us of our shared humanity. For in the end, music is far more than a beautiful melody—it is the heartbeat of the human soul.

After all, music is not simply heard; it is deeply felt.

THE DIARY THAT TOUCHED THE WORLD

“Paper has more patience than people”

What is a diary? Well, a diary is like a book in which you can write your deepest fears, feelings, and thoughts. It is like a best friend who never judges you for your feelings and thoughts. You can always share your secrets with the diary without having to be nervous or weary about it sharing that secret with anyone else. But what if that diary gets published and becomes a world-famous book? Would it feel exciting, knowing that you’re going to be famous and acknowledged? Or would it feel terrifying, knowing that now, the entire world can read what you actually feel and think? Well, this is one such diary – a diary that was originally meant to be just another ordinary diary but ended up becoming the book we all know and love – The Diary of a Young Girl.

The diary of a young girl was written by a 13-year-old German girl named Anne Frank, who, unfortunately, was a victim of the tragic Holocaust of the Jews by Nazi Germany. First of all, let’s get to know a bit more about Anne. Anne Frank was born to Jewish parents Mr. Otto Frank and Mrs. Edith Frank, in Frankfurt, Germany, in 1929. She also had an elder sister named Margot Frank, who was at least 3 years older than her. Anne led a peaceful and normal childhood, living happily with her parents and her sister. She was a very talkative girl, much to the annoyance of her teachers. But unfortunately, her carefree and perfect life was cut short.

Anne grew up during a time when Humanity was already on its knees, suffering from the aftermaths of World War 1. History decided to repeat itself as Former Dictator Adolf Hitler came into power. He took full control of Germany. Hitler disliked Jews a lot and always believed that they were the cause of every misfortune on this planet. Thus, he came up with a decision that had shaken the entire world and had taken the lives of nearly 6 million innocent Jews. He gave orders to his armies and officials to either kill or send any Jew whom they see to concentration camps, where they would either await execution or would have to rot and suffer by doing harsh labour. Jews in concentration camps weren’t even provided basic necessities for survival, as they had to either fend for themselves or await painful death. Due to this, Anne and her family had to emigrate to Amsterdam, the capital of the Netherlands, to escape from the Nazis. However, their relief didn’t last long, as the Nazis invaded and took control of the Netherlands a few weeks later. This forced the Frank Family into hiding in a secret Annexe behind Otto Frank’s office for over two years. They had to share the Annexe with the Van Dann Family. Life in the Annexe was quiet and boring. Anne mentions that they had to maintain pin-drop silence throughout the entire day, as they didn’t want the workers, who worked in Frank’s office during the day, to notice them and report them to the Nazi officials. They had to tip-toe around the Annexe without making any noise and could only speak in whispers. These years were the times when Anne felt truly alone. To tackle her loneliness, Anne immersed herself in reading books and writing in her diary. Life continued like normal in the Annexe, even though everyone had to remain cautious and weary. Then, in 1944, Anne’s fate was finally sealed when the Nazi officials had found them and arrested all the 8 members of the Annexe. They were all sent to Concentration Camps in Germany. Anne was only 15 when she died due to Typhus, the same disease which killed her elder sister, Margot, a few days earlier in the Concentration Camp. When Soviet Troops finally liberated the Concentration Camps, Otto Frank was the only survivor. He travelled back to the Netherlands and found out that Anne’s diary was left untouched. Determined to let the world hear his daughter’s voice, Otto published the diary in 1947, as it soon caught the eye of the public and spread like wildfire.

I chose this book because it deeply touched me. We all can learn a lesson or two from Anne’s story. Like, imagine not being able to go outside....not being able to talk freely and express yourself without any fear...Always afraid you might get discovered and sentenced to death just because of your religion....that was Anne’s reality. It’s shocking to know that there was a time when basic humanity and empathy almost ceased to exist and that hatred and intolerance reigned for years, maybe even decades. Moments like these make us appreciate the world we live in right now, where diplomacy and peace are usually preferred over war and persecution.

In conclusion, This diary is not just any other book you read – it is a book which you can feel, deep in your heart. And once you read it, Anne’s voice stays with you forever.

READING DAY CELEBRATION

Loyola School celebrated Reading Day with great enthusiasm on 19 June, fostering a love for books and lifelong learning among students.

The chief guest for the occasion, Dr. Jeevan Job Thomas, interacted warmly with the students and delivered an inspiring talk on human intelligence and its significance in the age of Artificial Intelligence. He encouraged students to cultivate creativity, critical thinking, empathy, and wisdom—qualities that make human intelligence unique and irreplaceable in an AI-driven world.

As part of the celebrations, the school, in association with DC Books, organized a vibrant Book Exhibition, providing students with an opportunity to explore a wide range of books and develop their reading habits.

The celebration also featured several literary competitions. Students enthusiastically participated in a Book Review Competition and created engaging book recommendation videos, in which they shared insights about their favourite books and inspired their peers to read. The day's activities beautifully reinforced the joy of reading and the importance of books in shaping young minds.

YOGA

A JOURNEY FROM SELF TO THE SELF

International Yoga Day is celebrated every year on 21st June to promote the practice of yoga and its remarkable benefits for physical, mental, and spiritual well-being. The day was first observed in 2015 after the proposal made by the Prime Minister of India, Shri Narendra Modi, was adopted by the United Nations. Since then, millions of people across the globe have come together each year to celebrate this timeless gift from India.

Yoga is an ancient discipline that originated in India thousands of years ago. More than just a form of exercise, it is a way of life that harmoniously unites the body, mind, and spirit. Through physical postures (asanas), breathing techniques (pranayama), and meditation, yoga helps us achieve inner peace, emotional balance, and physical fitness.

The regular practice of yoga offers countless benefits. It strengthens the body, improves flexibility and posture, enhances concentration, relieves stress and anxiety, and promotes overall health. In an age where people often face pressure, distractions, and unhealthy lifestyles, yoga serves as a powerful tool for building resilience, mindfulness, and self-discipline.

International Yoga Day is marked by mass yoga demonstrations, workshops, seminars, and awareness programmes held in schools, colleges, workplaces, and public spaces around the world. These celebrations inspire people of all ages to embrace yoga as a daily practice and to experience its transformative power.

In today's fast-paced and technology-driven world, yoga reminds us to slow down, breathe deeply, and reconnect with ourselves. It teaches us that true well-being comes from maintaining harmony between the body, mind, and soul. As the ancient wisdom of yoga continues to inspire humanity, let us make it a part of our daily lives and embark on the beautiful journey from the self to the Self—a journey towards health, happiness, inner peace, and holistic living.
