PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Parents, Teachers and Students,

June marked the dawn of a new academic journey at Loyola School—and what a promising beginning it has been! From the vibrant celebrations of Praveshanolsavam to the reflective moments of Reading Day, each event this month has echoed the spirit of joy, hope, and purpose that defines our Loyola family. It was truly heartwarming to see our students return after the summer break; their faces lit with enthusiasm and their hearts ready to embrace learning. This year, we have introduced several new initiatives to enrich the daily life of our students and nurture a more mindful and dynamic school environment.

Each morning now begins with a short meditation, allowing students to quieten their minds and canter themselves for the day ahead. We end the day with a reflective Examen prayer accompanied by soft music, helping students to look back on their day with gratitude and awareness. I'm delighted to see how positively our students have responded to this gentle practice of mindfulness. Another major step forward has been the introduction of the Loyola School App. With real-time updates on class activities and seamless communication between teachers, students, and parents, the app has proven to be a valuable tool in strengthening our collaboration. I sincerely thank our teachers for their dedication in updating the daily status and making this initiative a success.

It has also been encouraging to witness the confidence growing among our students through the class assembly speeches. Many of them have begun overcoming their stage fear and are learning to express themselves clearly and courageously. Our newly launched Loyola Radio has added another exciting platform for creative expression—giving students the opportunity to become radio jockeys and refine their communication skills in a fun, engaging way.

The monthly examinations introduced this month have given students a clearer sense of their academic progress and helped them develop better study habits. It's reassuring to receive encouraging feedback from parents, students, and staff about the positive changes we've implemented. Together, we are creating a joyful, focused, and creative learning environment on our campus.

As we move ahead, I urge my dear students to make the most of every opportunity. Speak without fear, learn with joy, and grow with confidence. Remember, when you open your books, you're not just studying a subject—you're laying the foundation for your dreams. Every student, at some point, asks the question: "Why do I need to study?" The answer may seem obvious—to pass exams, to get good grades, or to make our parents and teachers proud. But beyond all these reasons, there lies a deeper and more meaningful truth: You study because your dreams deserve preparation.

Each one of us carries a dream in our heart—a vision of what we want to become, what we want to do, and how we hope to make a difference in the world. Whether you wish to become a doctor, a teacher, a scientist, an artist, an engineer, or a responsible citizen who contributes to society—your dream is valid, and it is beautiful.

But dreams don't come true just by wishing.

They need effort, discipline, knowledge, and skills. And these are exactly what your studies provide.

POST FOR A LEADER

"A leader is a person who knows the way, shows the way & goes the way. As I was selected in the first selection process. There was an equal amount of excitement & nervousness inside me. Those days of preparation were different. Preparing for an election was so much different from preparing for any other competitions. Even though I didn't win the election, it gave me a memory that I will never forget again in my lifetime. I could do well at the assembly only because of the help of my teachers. I am so much grateful to them for helping me and encouraging me. Not only teachers, but also the help of my friends helped me stay calm. Their support will be the one reason I will adore them for the rest of my life.

Participation in the election made me stronger. It gave me confidence, hope and energy to survive, to achieve my goals.

Reading Day is marked annually on June 19th, a day dedicated to promote the importance of reading. Reading Day serves as a reminder of the power that books and literature have in people's lives. This day not only honours the act of reading but also promotes literacy and education worldwide. By recognizing a day to read, we highlight the importance of literature for our personal growth and societal development. This day is celebrated in honour of PN Panicker, a Keralite teacher renowned as the 'Father of Library Movement'. Puthuvayil Narayana Panicker worked towards societal betterment through his literacy movements in India. Reading is a fundamental skill that is necessary for education and personal growth. Reading helps us gain information, critical thinking skills and problem-solving skills. Reading is vital for helping children to learn language skills. Books give a glimpse into many words and broaden one's understanding of various perspectives and creative ideas.

Reading Day was observed with a rich array of literary celebrations. The highlight was the presence of Kendra Sahitya Akademi award winner Mr. Venkitachalam, who inspired students with a heartening interaction. Principal Rev. Fr. Roy Alex emphasized the transformative power of reading in his message. Students brought beloved characters from the writings of Vaikom Muhammad Basheer to life through vivid roleplays and dramatizations. A Book Exhibition, held on the 19th and 20th of June in collaboration with TBS Bookstore, added charm to the celebration and encouraged students to embrace the joy of books.
